The Derryfield Men's and Women's Crew Team traveled to Saratoga Springs, NY for the annual Head of the Fish Regatta. The Head of the Fish is known for cold rain and winds that test the strength of over 6000 athletes on Fish Creek. More than 1400 boats participate in this regatta over a 2 day period. Fifty kids from the Derryfield Crew Team rowed in 13 different events, many of them rowing multiple times over the course of the day. As usual for the Head of the Fish, shifting winds changed race conditions from minute to minute. While everyone rowed hard, producing great results, highlights of the day were the: Men's Junior Novice 4 (Jake Smiley (Auburn), Jared Hammer (Bedford), Andrew Voss (Nashua), Maxwell Nagel (Bedford), coxed by Everett Baker (Bedford)) which placed 5th out of 25 boats and only a second behind the 4th place finish, Women's Junior Novice 4 (Mia Sobin (Manchester), Olivia Donahue (Bedford), Meredith Leyden (Bedford), Lucy Steer (Nashua), coxed by Zoe Sobin (Manchester)) placed 7th out of 25 boats - only 3 seconds behind 6th place,

Women's Junior 4 A boat (Kelsey Kanik (New Boston), Maddie Kramer (Manchester), Meg Steer (Nashua), Heather Monty (Bedford), coxed by Aran Hubbell (Nashua)) who got 8th place, only 13 seconds behind 1st place. Interestingly the Derryfield's Women's Junior 4 B boat (Chloe Nguyen (Bedford), Maeve Mitchell (Candia), Erin Ferguson (Manchester), Mariel

McLeod (Windham), coxed by Jen Mandelbaum (Londonderry)), which launched after the A boat, was subject to the ever-changing weather with winds suddenly gusting from the south, slowing them down significantly in the last 500 meters. They remained strong in spite of the turn of events and still placed 35th out of 49 boats in the same race,

Coxswain, Matt Porat (Amherst) and rower Spencer McCormick (Chester) prepare for their race with the Men's Junior Varsity 8 Boat at the Head of the Fish this past weekend. Matt not only coxed the Men's JV 8 but also rowed in the Men's Juniors Varsity 4 as well as the Men's Junior Doubles.
