Derryfield School Earns National Recognition and $2M Endowment

MANCHESTER – A $2 million gift from the Malone Family Foundation to The Derryfield School will establish an endowment for a Malone Scholars’ Program that will improve access to quality education for gifted students who lack the financial resources to develop their talents. Founded in 1964, The Derryfield School provides a challenging and nurturing education to bright, motivated young people whose families seek an independent day school. Cathie Wlaschin, Executive Director of the Malone Family Foundation notes, “With its very capable students, highly respected faculty, and innovative and creative programs, The Derryfield School provides us with an optimal opportunity to find and accommodate talented Malone scholars in New Hampshire. We’re confident that Derryfield will be an exceptional Malone partner.”

The Derryfield School was invited by the Foundation to be one of 45 schools across the nation to participate in a rigorous application process and was chosen as the sole New Hampshire Malone Partner

School. Derryfield is among eleven schools to be awarded endowments this year to create Malone Scholar Programs. Head of School Craig Sellers commented, “The mission of the Malone Foundation is a perfect match for one of Derryfield’s core long-term goals: access. It is particularly gratifying that the Malone Foundation has invested in us as their educational partner in New Hampshire. This is more than a transformative gift for talented students in our area – it is an endorsement of our exemplary faculty and an investment in our program. We are thrilled.”

The New England Association of Schools and Colleges recently commended the School’s academic program for providing students with individual pathways and flexibility of curricular paths that enable every student to achieve success.

Mr. Sellers concluded, “When I learned that the Malone Foundation was seeking schools in each of the 50 states ‘where it’s not only OK to be smart, but encouraged,’ I knew we would make a great Malone Partner School.”

► Dean of Students

ing committee was compelled to offer him the position.

“Rob certainly knows who we are and what we aspire to be. What really brought him to the fore is his focus on having things begin in the classroom with students. That’s the critical relationship and that’s what we’re here to do. Supporting efforts to create a healthy school culture from the ground up – starting in the classroom in the day-to-day interactions with students resonated a great deal with the selection committee,” said Ingram.

“In addition to skills and experience, we look at how he interacts with people. His calmness and sense of humor are strong assets,” Ingram added. Mr. Scully is an English teacher at Souhegan High School.
